Red Wolf Bibliography: USFWS Technical Report No. 9 - Update

March: 16-18.

Chadwick, J., B. Fazio, and M. Karlin. 2010. Effectiveness of GPS-based telemetry to determine temporal changes in habitat use and home-range sizes of red wolves. Southeastern Naturalist 9(2): 303-316.

Cronin, M. A. 1993. Mitochondrial DNA in wildlife taxonomy and conservation

_____ C. C. Platz Jr., W. Waddell, M.H. Jones, and S. Behrens. 1998. Semen parameters and electron microscope observations of the red wolf Canis rufus. Journal of Reproduction and 7(2): 273-287.

_____ A.R. Johnson, B.R. Patterson, P.J. Wilson, B.N. White. 2007. The conspecific nature of eastern and red wolves; conservation and management implications. Conservation Genetics

Immobilization of red wolves (Canis rufus) with medetomidine and butorphanol.
Proceedings AAZV, AAWV, ARAV, NAZWV Joint Conference. pp. 171-175.

Cardiorespiratory effects of medetomidine-butorphanol, medetomidine-butorphanol-diazepam, and medetomidine-butorphanol-ketamine in captive red wolves (Canis rufus).

Washington, DC.

Press. Stillwater, Minnesota 200 pages.

Lockyear, K. M. 2006. An exploration of fecundity in captive red wolves (Canis rufus):
implications for population management. Ph.D. dissertation, York University, Toronto, Canada. 349 + xviii pp.

_____ W.T. Waddell, K.L. Goodrowe, and S.E. MacDonald. 2009. Retrospective investigation of captive red wolf reproductive success in relation to age and inbreeding. Zoo Biology

_____ K. L. Goodrowe, W. T. Waddell, and S. E. MacDonald. 2009. Comparison of different osmolalities and egg-yolk composition in processing media for the cryopreservation of red

